DSEH004 · PERFORMANCE MANAGEMENT AND EMPLOYEE ENGAGEMENT

From Feedback to Development Conversation

Week 5 · Lecture 2 · Unit I · Coaching theory and evidence, managers' implicit theories, feedback acceptance and candor across cultures

R K Singh
Senior Professor, Department of Commerce, Delhi School of Economics, University of Delhi

L2 · COMMIT BEFORE THEORY

Some managers are natural coaches; the rest cannot be taught.

Agree or disagree. What would change your mind?

L2 · A CONVERSATION STRUCTURE

Whitmore's GROW model

1 Goal
What do you want from this conversation and this quarter?

2 Reality
What is happening now? What have you tried?

3 Options
What could you do? What else?

4 Will
What will you do, by when, and how will we know?

GROW is autonomy supportive by design: the employee generates the options.

Whitmore (2017)

Two meta analyses

THEEBOOM, BEERSMA AND VAN VIANEN (2014)

Broad effects

Coaching improved performance and skills, wellbeing, coping, work attitudes and goal directed self regulation.

JONES, WOODS AND GUILLAUME (2016)

Workplace coaching

Coaching improved learning and performance outcomes; internal coaches showed stronger effects than external ones.

Heslin, Vandewalle and Latham (2006)

Implicit theories

Managers who believe ability can grow coached more than managers who believe it is fixed.

Changeable

A brief workshop inducing growth beliefs increased managers' willingness to coach.

The manager coalition is not fixed either. Manager beliefs are a lever.

Ilgen, Fisher and Taylor (1979)

Perceived

The recipient must notice the feedback.

Accepted

Acceptance depends on the credibility and power of the source.

Acted on

Only accepted feedback leads to a response.

Radical candor in an Indian workplace

SCOTT (2017)

The model

Care personally and challenge directly at the same time.

HOFSTEDE (2001)

Power distance

India scores high on power distance, where open challenge of or by a superior can threaten face.

DESIGN IMPLICATION

Translation

Directness may need privacy, relationship first, and questions rather than verdicts.

L2 · ROLE PLAY

In pairs: one plays a defensive employee, one uses GROW. Swap after five minutes. Which step was hardest?
