DSEH004 · PERFORMANCE MANAGEMENT AND EMPLOYEE ENGAGEMENT

Implementation Architectures and the Round 4 Brief

Week 7 · Lecture 3 · Unit III · Front line managers, diffusion, hybrid work, the Indian frame and the Round 4 options

R K Singh
Senior Professor, Department of Commerce, Delhi School of Economics, University of Delhi

L3 · COMMIT BEFORE THEORY

A good policy will spread on its own once people see it works.

Agree or disagree.

Front line managers

PURCELL AND HUTCHINSON (2007)

Bringing policy to life

Employees experience HR through their line manager's behavior, not the policy document.

KEHOE AND WRIGHT (2013)

Perceived practices

Employees' perceptions of high performance practices related to commitment, citizenship and intent to stay.

Rogers: diffusion of innovations

ADOPTER GROUP	SHARE	ROLE IN AN ENGAGEMENT ROLLOUT
Innovators	2.5 percent	Volunteer pilots
Early adopters	13.5 percent	Opinion leaders and champions
Early majority	34 percent	Follow visible success
Late majority	34 percent	Follow norms
Laggards	16 percent	Resist; may hold real concerns

Rogers (2003)

Gajendran and Harrison (2007)

Benefits

Telecommuting had small positive effects on autonomy, satisfaction and performance.

Costs

High intensity telecommuting harmed relationships with coworkers.

Sinha's nurturant task leader

SINHA (1980)

The model

A leader who is task oriented and nurturing, offering care conditional on effort.

DESIGN CHOICE

Implication

Champions in Indian plants may need to be respected seniors, not only enthusiasts.

L3 · ROUND 4 BRIEF

Multigenerational strategy without stereotypes

OPTION	THEORY IT RESTS ON
4A Career stage segmentation	Life course; Costanza
4B Internal mobility and growth pathways	Mobility gradient
4C Universal high engagement design	SDT
4D Specialist and legacy tracks	Erikson's generativity
4E Flexible personalization bundle (i deals)	Rousseau

Mobility gradient: Gen Z 69, Millennial 55, Gen X 27, Boomer 9 percent. Design for the pattern, not the stereotype; defend on performance grounds.

L3 · BEFORE WEEK 8

Read Costanza et al. (2012) carefully. Ask what a generation would have to be for it to explain behavior.
